Breaking Ground for Jewers Doors at the site of their new Headquarters

Jewers Doors' Directors are breaking ground at the site of their new purpose-built factory and office building in Biggleswade. Milton Keynes based Parkway Construction are building the new premises at Juno Place on Stratton Business Park, only a quarter of a mile from their current site. Comprising of 45,700 sqft of factory and over 12,000 sqft of office space, it will more than double their existing facilities.

Established in 1983 and still a family run business, Jewers have been at their current UK Headquarters since 1993. But with the workforce growing and now with offices in the Middle East, North America and Europe, they have made the decision to construct a purpose designed workshop and offices to design and manufacture their range of industrial sliding folding doors, aircraft hangar doors and bespoke industrial door solutions.
