Jewers Doors receives Constructionline Gold Membership

Jewers Doors is delighted to announce we have recently been certified as a Constructionline Gold Member.

Constructionline is the UK's leading procurement and supply chain management scheme for the construction industry.

In order to obtain gold membership, we had to provide comprehensive information on various aspects of the company business using an enhanced prequalification questionnaire that goes above and beyond standards which are normally employed in construction-related procurement procedures.

Our company credentials were assessed for environmental management, quality management, equal opportunities and diversity, and corporate and social responsibility. Gold membership also includes an Acclaim Health & Safety accreditation, which is SSIP compliant (Safety Schemes in Procurement).

Our new gold status will provide assurance and confidence that Jewers Doors is committed to our customers, our industry and our employees.
